Adding an ORCID

On the homepage, you will be given the option to add your ORCID to your profile. This can be very useful as it allows Elements to better match publication information to your profile, and will pass your ORCID details to WIRE when you deposit a publication so that people can identify you correctly as the author of a work.

When you click on Add, you will be taken to the ORCID website and prompted to sign in, or if you have not set up an ORCID, to register for an ORCID (N.B. you should only have one ORCID.)

A screenshot of the ORCID sign-in page. The page has a clean, white background with a light blue border. At the top center, the text "Sign in" is displayed in a large, dark blue font. Below this, there are two input fields. The first field is labeled "Email or 16-digit ORCID iD" and contains the text "0000-0002-5009-0548". Below the first field, there is a smaller line of text: "example@email.com or 0000-0001-2345-6789". The second field is labeled "Password" and contains a series of black dots representing a masked password. Below the input fields is a large, dark blue button with the text "SIGN IN" in white, uppercase letters. At the bottom of the form, there are two lines of text: "Forgot your password or ORCID ID?" and "Don't have an ORCID iD yet? Register now", both in a dark blue font.

Once you have completed the process the ORCID will be added to your profile and you can display it publicly.
